

Dave Wagner, VP Information Technology/CIO

Dave Wagner is an IT veteran, bringing almost 40 years of diverse experiences to UFCU. Over the course of his career, Dave has developed strengths and passion in the areas of strategic planning, enterprise governance, and staff development. Dave joined UFCU in 2021 after having spent 18 months working with the UFCU IT team to develop a business-aligned IT strategy. This built on Dave's experiences building a similar business-aligned strategy for ON Semiconductor, for which Wagner won a CIO 100 award from CIO Magazine. Prior to joining UFCU, Dave served as a principal with the worldwide WGroup, a Wavestone company that counsels Fortune 1000 companies in taking a peer-to-peer approach to IT optimization and transformation. He also was the owner of DHW IT Consulting, focused on IT transformation and governance initiatives to improve IT value delivery.

Dave formerly was vice president of global IT infrastructure for CareFusion, a medical device manufacturer, and served 10 years as CIO and SVP of IT at ON Semiconductor, a global semiconductor manufacturing company. Early in his career Dave held IT roles with Pepsi Bottling Group, Dell, and what is now Accenture, a global management information consulting firm.

Wagner holds a bachelor's degree in computer science from Rice University. He is active with Foundation Communities and their Tax Preparation work and volunteers with other organizations such as Salvation Army. Married for 39 years, Dave has a family of four daughters and five grandchildren. In his spare time Dave and his wife Amy enjoy walking, gardening, and spending time with their daughters.
